Transform Content.

“You’ve asked all the right questions, taken the initiative at appropriate times and demonstrated an appropriate amount of dread at these crazy schedules. I am confident that we could not be working with a better group right now.”

This year, millions of students worldwide will be inspired with content Rainbow helped to create.

We help companies and organizations in publishing and beyond create the tools and resources that transform teaching and learning. We believe every learner can achieve his or her own brand of greatness and success. It takes vision, creativity and expertise. It demands new approaches to the development process. And yes, it all works better when new kinds of partnerships are part of the picture.

Imagine what education will be in the future.

What is your idea to make it more brilliant? How can we help?

Our clients and partners value the insight, strategy, analytics and powerful processes we bring to every project.
